

SYMPOSIUM

Advancing Trust in Science: Institutional Obligations to Promote Research Integrity

Hosted by the Department of Medical Ethics & Health Policy and the Institute for Translational Medicine & Therapeutics, University of Pennsylvania Perelman School of Medicine

Date:

Thursday, October 10, 2024

Location:

Widener Lecture Hall
University of Pennsylvania Museum
3260 South Street Philadelphia, PA 19104
(Or Zoom)

Description:

Several high-profile examples of research misconduct, defined as fabrication, falsification, and plagiarism, have recently come to light, amidst a moment of already precarious and waning public trust in science. The issues are not new, although there are now novel tools for identifying misconduct, proliferating platforms for discussing allegations and publicizing concerns, and growing unease about politically motivated misconduct allegations. In addition, the US Department of Health and Human Services Office of Research Integrity recently proposed new regulations to revise the Public Health Service Policies on Research Misconduct, with a final rule expected this year. Against this churning backdrop, how should institutional stakeholders – including universities and publishers – address concerns about research misconduct, from prevention to response? How should institutions build and maintain a culture of scientific integrity? When problems arise, how should they ensure procedural protections for those accused of misconduct, protect accusers from retaliation, conduct comprehensive investigations, facilitate rapid resolution, and promote transparency? Should responses differ when institutional leaders are accused of misconduct or when misconduct arises outside the health sciences? This symposium, which will be published in an open access special issue of the Journal of Law, Medicine, and Ethics in Spring 2025, will present commentaries on these issues and others from leading experts in ethics and law, those with experience identifying research misconduct, and those sharing relevant stakeholder perspectives, including researchers, academic leadership, and journal editors and publishers.

Agenda

8:00-8:30	Breakfast
8:30-9:00	Opening Remarks Holly Fernandez Lynch, JD, MBE Associate Professor of Medical Ethics and Health Policy, University of Pennsylvania Perelman School of Medicine Dawn Bonnell, PhD Vice Provost for Research, University of Pennsylvania Garret FitzGerald, MD, FRS Director, Institute for Translational Medicine and Therapeutics, University of Pennsylvania Perelman School of Medicine
9:00-9:45	Panel 1: The Scientists – Misconduct Motivation, Detection, and Education

	Moderator: Steven Joffe, MD, MPH Chair, Department of Medical Ethics and Health Policy, University of Pennsylvania Perelman School of Medicine Max Bazerman, PhD – Why Researchers Engage in Misconduct and How to Stop It Straus Professor of Business Administration, Harvard University Paul S. Brookes, PhD – Misconduct Detection Professor, Anesthesiology, University of Rochester Medical Center Kayte Spector-Bagdady, JD, MBE – Data Science, Data Education Associate Professor and Interim Co-Director, Center for Bioethics & Social Sciences, University of Michigan
9:45-10:15	Panel 1 Discussion
10:15-10:30	Break
10:30-11:30	Panel 2: The Journals – Roles and Challenges Moderator: Matthew McCoy, PhD Assistant Professor of Medical Ethics and Health Policy, University of Pennsylvania Perelman School of Medicine Ferric C. Fang, MD – COVID-19 Retractions Professor of Laboratory Medicine, Pathology and Microbiology, University of Washington School of Medicine Ruth O’Hara, PhD – Null Results Are Results Senior Associate Dean for Research, Stanford University School of Medicine Rita Redberg, MD, MS - Journals’ Roles in Addressing Research Misconduct Professor of Medicine, University of California San Francisco; Immediate Past Editor-in-Chief, JAMA Internal Medicine Lisa Bero, PhD – Systematic Reviews and Research Integrity Chief Scientist, Center for Bioethics and Humanities and Professor of Medicine and Public Health, CU Anschutz; Senior Editor, Research Integrity, Cochrane
11:30-12:00	Panel 2 Discussion
12:00-12:45	Lunch
12:45-1:45	Panel 3: The Research Institutions – Regulatory Responsibilities and Opportunities Moderator: Emily A. Largent, JD, PhD, RN Chief, Division of Medical Ethics, Department of Medical Ethics and Health Policy, University of Pennsylvania Perelman School of Medicine Sheila R. Garrity, JD, MPH, MBA – Preserving the Integrity of Public Health Service-Funded Research for Future Generations Director, Office of Research Integrity, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Health, US Department of Health and Human Services Andrew Paskevich - Institutional Challenges in Navigating Research Misconduct Director of Academic and Research Integrity, Penn Medicine Mark Barnes, JD – Institutional Concerns for Defamation Liability Partner, Ropes & Gray and former Associate Provost for Research, Harvard University; Faculty Co-Director, Multi-Regional Clinical Trials Center

	Barbara E. Bierer, MD – Managing Multi-Institutional Jurisdiction in Research Misconduct Cases Professor of Medicine, Harvard Medical School; Faculty Director, Multi-Regional Clinical Trials Center of Brigham and Women’s Hospital and Harvard
1:45-2:15	Panel 3 Discussion
2:15-2:30	Break
2:30-3:30	Panel 4: The Path Forward – Meeting Institutional Obligations for Research Integrity Moderator: Holly Fernandez Lynch, JD, MBE Associate Professor of Medical Ethics and Health Policy, University of Pennsylvania Perelman School of Medicine Garret FitzGerald, MD, FRS - Can We Believe the Data? Director, Institute for Translational Medicine and Therapeutics, University of Pennsylvania Perelman School of Medicine Matthew Schrag, MD, PhD – Independent Investigation of Academic Research Misconduct Assistant Professor of Neurology, Vanderbilt University Medical Center Ivan Oransky, MD – Why Universities Should Release Institutional Investigations Co-founder, Retraction Watch; Distinguished Journalist in Residence, New York University's Arthur Carter Journalism Institute; Editor in Chief, The Transmitter C.K. Gunsalus, JD – Institutions Holding Themselves Accountable Director of the National Center for Principled Leadership and Research Ethics, University of Illinois Urbana Champaign
3:30-4:00	Panel 4 Discussion
4:00-4:15	Concluding Remarks Steven Joffe, MD, MPH Chair, Department of Medical Ethics and Health Policy, University of Pennsylvania Perelman School of Medicine
4:15	Adjourn